

The name of my Character in my narrative is Dylan. Dylan is the primary character. He has short brown hair and dark brown eyes. Dylan's body type is very tall and skinny. He is around 6 feet tall. Dylan is a straight 18-year-old male, who is a senior in high school.

Dylan lives in Seattle, on the outskirts of the city. He was born and raised there and has never moved. Dylan has two parents who are together and have no health issues. They have always been supportive of his dreams to become a doctor.

Dylan likes to put on a brave face when people he loves are suffering, but he does get nervous and is an emotional person, even if he doesn't show it. When he gets nervous, he has a bad habit of biting his nails. If Dylan gets embarrassed, he tries not to show it. Some things that embarrass him are being confronted in public, or in very big social situations.

Dylan fell in love with Isabella and plans to have a future with her. He has a strong love for medicine and a passion to help people. Dylan loves to make people laugh. He's known as the class clown, and to see his girlfriend suffering though this, he tries his best always to put a smile on her face, even if it only consists of making her laugh a couple times a day. Dylan listens to alternative music and enjoys the basic foods, nothing special. He isn't a picky eater and enjoys trying new things. The motivation for Dylan in this story is to do all he can to help Isabella in her situation.

Dylan is involved of a medical health club in school that not only teaches them more about medicine and preparing to be a doctor, but also raises awareness for the healthcare problems that today's world faces. Dylan always had a passion to be a doctor, hence why he joined the medical club, but ever since meeting his girlfriend, Isabella, he started to have a passion for solving health care issues. When Isabella's father faces a developing lung cancer, his job's health insurance does not support him well enough to get the care he needs. Dylan sees the stress that it puts on Isabella and her family, and feels the need to help, and does his small part of trying to support her family via this club.